What is External Auditing?

Auditors are catalysts for positive change, using their expertise to enhance transparency, assess risks, and promote ethical practices. They optimise operations, safeguard assets, and build trust, empowering organisations to thrive.

An external auditor is a specialised accountant who verifies financial reports prepared by finance teams, providing credibility and fostering market confidence. Their role is crucial for informed decision-making and consumer trust.

Becoming an external auditor requires a solid foundation in accounting principles, financial processes, and reporting standards. This journey typically involves a Bachelor's degree in Accountancy and postgraduate qualifications such as CA or CPA certification.

"Entering into the Auditing industry whilst studying a Bachelor of Professional Accounting at MQ simultaneously, has opened new doors for me as NAG constantly encourages and promotes personal growth and studies. I can say that I've gained invaluable experience early on in my career, supporting me in both my studies and work. I am pleased to say that I'm happy to be with NAG for the long run".

– Noora Fatima, Auditor at National Audits Group

As a university student, balancing work and studies can be daunting. However, NAG goes above and beyond to accommodate my educational commitments. They understand the importance of allocating me time to study and generously grant leave before exams, greatly alleviating the stress of managing both responsibilities."

– Yianni Solidakis, Auditor at National Audits Group

Career Pathways

At National Audits Group we believe theoretical knowledge cannot stand alone, and that experiential learning is where people become empowered and confident.

Our career pathways have been tailored to provide students with a range of options that can suit their individual needs.

Options include:

- Work placement programs required by higher- education or university studies;
- Traineeship programs completed via a TAFE course or the like;
- University undergraduate programs with studies being completed either full-time or part-time; and
- Post University Graduate programs such as completion of CAANZ and CPA studies.

Our career pathways ensure that you will gain on-the-job experience within our external audit division, which can also lead to opportunities to work within our either of our audit divisions.

Students are provided with direct access to our experienced management and leadership teams. This means you are never left on your own, and that you are continuously supported by a team who want to empower and see you succeed!

Career Pathway Case Study

Meet Danielle Nye

Director

Danielle has been fast tracking her career since 2009 and has since progressed into a leadership role at National Audits Group. Hear about her experience and how her extraordinary journey shaped her career and personal growth

In 2009, Danielle applied for early entry into a Bachelor of Business (Accounting) at Charles Sturt University while securing a cadetship with a local firm, marking the beginning of her career journey. Through her cadetship, Danielle gained valuable real-world experience in audit and accounting, applying theory to practice and developing confidence in her abilities.

Graduating in 2013 with years of experience, Danielle joined National Audits Group as a Senior Auditor. In 2014, she seized a six-week secondment opportunity in New York, enriching her professional growth. From 2015 to 2017, Danielle completed a graduate diploma with CAANZ, which helped accelerate her career, leading to her promotion to Audit Manager.

In 2018, Danielle became a Registered Company Auditor (RCA) with ASIC, thanks to her managerial roles. That same year, she purchased her first home. By early 2019, Danielle obtained her Public Practice Certificate (PPC) and was promoted to Associate Director, taking on more leadership responsibilities.

In 2021, Danielle was appointed one of the three executive Directors of National Audits Group, leading the external audit team and shaping the firm's projects and growth. She received the 'Outstanding Young Business Leader' Golden Crow Award in 2022, recognising her exceptional leadership in the workplace and community.

Today, Danielle, under 30, serves as a key leader at National Audits Group. Her story is a testament to the power of combining education with hands-on experience, illustrating how hard work, dedication, and seizing opportunities can lead to remarkable career progression.
